Dear [redacted]

Mr. Allen Kent of Western Reserve University has recommended you as a "truly dynamic speaker . . . well versed in foreign information exchange activities".

The American Society for Quality Control is holding a major National Conference in Baltimore on November 11th and 12th, 1960. As program chairman of this conference, I have been searching for a keynote speaker to open the conference with a subject on the importance of advancing our technical progress through the exchange of technical information. I would be particularly interested in relating our internal information exchange progress with that of other countries, especially those in the Communist Bloc.

Please consider this letter as an invitation for you to address our Conference as its keynote speaker.

I would appreciate hearing from you at your earliest convenience and hope that you can make time in what must be a busy schedule to be with us in November.

Sincerely yours,

Ervin F. Taylor
